

Publishing an Image

Preparing an image for final use.

Review 3

1. Your client approaches you and asks you to prepare a photo to be used in Intel's investor financial newsletter. Explain the following considerations you made while preparing the photo seen here and why?

- What DPI did you set the photo to and why?
- What compression format did you use and why?
- What mode did you use and why?
- Are there any other considerations you took into account in the preparation of this image.

2. Your client approaches you and asks you to prepare the image seen here to be used in a magazine. Explain the following considerations you made while preparing the photo and why?

- What DPI did you set the photo to and why?
- What compression format did you use and why?
- What mode did you use and why?
- Are there any other considerations you took into account in the preparation of this image.

3. A teacher approaches you and asks you to prepare the image seen here to be used on a website. Explain the following considerations you made while preparing the image and why?

- What DPI did you set the photo to and why?
- What compression format did you use and why?
- What mode did you use and why?
- Are there any other considerations you took into account in the preparation of this image.

4. A client contacts you and asks you to prepare the image seen here to be used on a website to show investors the industry's market shares. Explain the following considerations you made while preparing the photo and why?

- What DPI did you set the photo to and why?
- What compression format did you use and why?
- What mode did you use and why?
- Are there any other considerations you took into account in the preparation of this image.

